H.W. Dog Training owner, Hans Wilke, from Toledo, Ohio has been working with dogs his entire life. Since he was a young child, he was on the training field with his father who trained police canines for a local Sheriff's Department. Hans's father also owned a security business with security canines. Hans began as a "kennel boy" taking care of the 32 dogs that resided on their property. Training dogs and watching them evolve into well-behaved members of the family has always been a passion.

In 2020, Hans decided to take his passion to the next level and commit full-time to the dog training profession. He has successfully trained thousands of dogs ensuring their transition to develop and display obedience and behavioral excellence.

Hans is a balanced dog trainer whom uses a variety of training methods and differentiated instruction. All dogs have various temperaments, may learn at a difference pace, and should be taught with a custom, Individualize training method.

At H.W. Dog Training, it is our mission to help each individual dog and their family successfully meet their training objectives and their maximum learning potential.
